

Friday, September 16th, 2022

Together Place Leading Neighborhood Revitalization Effort with Art

BY SCOTT MILLER, Q106.5

Sam Bullard painting the mural she was chosen to create by Together Place Peer Run Recovery Center.

Together Place at the corner of Union and Second

Sam Bullard's wheatpaste mural

Let the project begin. Shaw's Supermarket on Main Street in Bangor is where Sam Bullard is now painting the mural she was chosen to create by Together Place Peer Run Recovery Center.

Maine Savings Amphitheater looks nice with the changes and the signage.

And the wall on Shaw's facing Main Street soon will contribute to the changes going on in that busy section of Bangor.

Sam was busy painting but graciously paused for a photo.

The canvas is no longer blank. This is only one very small portion of that massive wall, so back to work for Sam.

First if you are not familiar with Together Place, shown above is their building, 3 or 4 blocks away, at Union Street and 2nd Street.

The project is called "An Optimistic Vision Inspiring Neighborhood Recovery".

Artist Samantha Bullard gets a grant to paint a mural on the canvas now known as Shaw's wall. A member of Together Place Peer Run Recovery Center is assisting with the mural.

The money is coming from local contributions.

Above is a sample of Sam's art, a wheatpaste mural.

Looking forward to seeing the finished product in such a visible spot on Main Street, Bangor.

And there are more murals to come thanks to Together Place. They have plans for two more murals in the Together Place Peer Run Recovery Center's neighborhood for next summer.

Keep an eye out for upcoming calls to artists, to determine who gets to do the projects, like Sam Bullard and the Shaw's wall.

This is a two-fold project. All who see the finished product benefit from more public art in the city, and those that are a part of the artistic project benefit with being involved in something very positive during their recovery process.

Win - Win. Another artistic landmark for Bangor in a very high traffic area.